President's Message

April 20, 1954.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE 1954 GRADUATING CLASS:

I extend to you individually my congratulations on having achieved one more step in your career, one of the most difficult and undoubtedly the most significant. You have moved into a select class for potential leadership among men and women. The next step in your path will call for the wisest selection, the most courageous action, the utmost perseverance, and the most rigid adherence to ideals. Your record at the College gives every indication that you will live up to these expectations. The future, then, will tell the story of men and women who have profited by the education given them by their Alma Mater and who are its distinguished sons and daughters.

With high hopes for your future, I am

Sincerely yours,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Montgomery", written in dark ink.

Art Department

IN the Art classes the students learn to draw, paint, design, sketch, and to make objects in handicrafts in ways that are helpful to the classroom teacher.

Lectures, pictures, and visits to museums and art galleries develop an aesthetic appreciation of the Art through the ages in the classes in the History and Appreciation of Art.

The members of the Art Department also serve in an advisory capacity to students planning decorations for social affairs or settings for stage productions.

Visual Education and Handwriting

THE course in Visual Education attempts, through a study of such visual aids as the picturegraph, stereograph, lantern slide, and motion picture, to make teaching more interesting and realistic.

The course in Handwriting gives students a practical skill in writing and a knowledge of the principles of teaching others how to write.

Education Department

THE work of the Department of Education may be divided into four fields. The first course given is a course in the Introduction to Education. In this course a brief but comprehensive view of the entire field of education is given to acquaint the pupil with the nature of the problems in each field, so that the student may choose his field wisely.

Courses in Psychology are then given to enable the prospective teacher to analyze and interpret the nature and behavior of pupils of various ages with whom he will be expected to work.

The remaining courses give the prospective teacher a more thorough insight into past and present trends in education, so that he may formulate definite ideas concerning the needs and procedures in education.

As a final step, the students study the technique of analyzing deficiencies in children's abilities and methods and technique of effective instruction in preparation for practice teaching, guided by the supervisors and the director of practice teaching.

Language Departments

English Department

THE English Department is attempting to develop students who speak and write correctly and clearly, who are proud of a nice use of their mother tongue, and who are unwilling to forego the culture that such a use furnishes.

A second aim of the department is to acquaint students with the best that has been written in English, laying emphasis on literature which is helpful in building character and in creating high ideals. Along with this knowledge of books, the department hopes there will go a critical attitude and the ability to discriminate, which will result in a genuine love of good reading.

Lastly, the department tries to furnish students with some knowledge of methods and some training in the passing on of English skills and English culture.

French and Latin Department

THE French Department prepares for teaching in junior and senior high schools. It offers separate courses in phonetics, conversation, grammar, and composition; here methods of presentation are emphasized. It also studies the literature of the various periods.

The Latin Department gives a thorough review of forms, and in three years reads Livy, Ovid, Cicero, Pliny, Horace, Plautus, and Terence. Roman social and political life is discussed. Special attention is given to the problems confronting the high school teachers of Caesar, Cicero, and Virgil.

Health Education Department

THIS department is to provide wholesome physical activity for the student body, which will not only help keep them physically fit but will also provide a training in skills which they can use in directing the necessary physical activities in our public schools.

This department specializes in the training of teachers of Health and Physical Education, which includes a four year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education.

Besides the varsity teams, there is intramural competition in the form of extra curricular activities. During the past year activities have been provided for both men and women, and participation is purely a voluntary affair. Points earned for certain awards are based upon participation in these sports.

Intramural sports for women are engaged in, and conducted by the women health education students under the guidance of instructors in the department.

Besides the regular teaching, coaching, and organizing intramural as well as varsity sports, the faculty of this department sponsors a health education exhibition. This exhibition is for the purpose of displaying to the school and public the work of the Physical Education Department in its entirety, from mass exercise and apparatus work to natural dancing.

The Library

THE Library, which contains approximately 34,000 books, is the center of the academic work of the college. It provides material for all courses of instruction, and furnishes books and magazines for general informational or recreational reading.

There are two main reading rooms, located on either side of the central lobby. In the north room there is a well-rounded collection of encyclopedias and reference books. The south room contains juvenile books which may be borrowed for student teaching or used in Juvenile Literature courses. This room is also used regularly by the children from the Demonstration School, who come, by grades, twice each month, to read and to exchange their books.

A collection of over 5000 mounted pictures, on file in the Juvenile Literature Room, provides excellent visual aids for student teaching and also supplements the art courses.

The Periodical Room, in which 150 magazines are regularly received, is in the basement of the Library building.

On the second floor, there is a museum, and also a small art gallery containing an original portrait of George Washington, painted by Charles Wilson Peale.

Mathematics Department

THOSE students of our State Teachers Colleges who are preparing to teach in the elementary schools are required to complete one or two courses in arithmetic, depending upon the curriculum they are pursuing, but no other course in mathematics. In these two semesters the aim is to equip such students with as thorough a knowledge of subject matter as is possible, on the theory that knowledge of a subject is the first and most important requisite for the successful teaching of it; and that the teacher who appears before her classes, prepared to enlighten them on every detail of the subject under consideration, is the teacher who will inspire her pupils and win their respect and cooperation; and, further, she will not subject them to any of the novel and fantastic experiments which are now too often introduced into the teaching of vital subjects.

Students in the secondary field who specialize in mathematics pursue courses in sequence through calculus. These courses are of college standard. They are conducted not only to provide for the mastery of the subject taught but also to prepare adequately for the teaching of high school mathematics.

Science Department

THE Department of Science in a State Teachers College has several very important functions to perform. Perhaps the most important of these is to develop in the entire student body, principally through the required courses, Educational Biology, Nature Study, Physical Science, the scientific attitude of mind toward all problems, and a sympathetic interest in all natural phenomena.

Probably next in importance is the imparting of a fundamental body of technical knowledge in the courses taken, so that the students are actually acquainted with the facts, principles, and laws necessary to get the desired results in and reactions from these courses.

Another very important function is to select and train a limited number of students, with sufficient scientific knowledge and professional ability to handle it, to teach one or more of the several sciences in the high schools, junior high, and elementary schools of the Commonwealth. Such students should also be stimulated and inspired to go on into further individual or graduate study to advance themselves in their chosen field.

The Department of Science in the State Teachers College at West Chester has now the necessary equipment and highly-trained instructors to accomplish the above named functions in a first class way.

Music Department—Theory

THE recent change in the curricula of all courses has brought to the entire student body a course in Music History and Appreciation, providing a cultural background for the better knowledge of the fine art of music.

A course in Music for Elementary, Intermediate, and Rural groups is also taught, preparing the student for the teaching of music in the grades. This, combined with skilled supervision, brings this subject to a really high standard of excellence.

This department specializes in the teaching of the subjects in the Music Education course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Public School Music.

Music Department—Studio

Whose delightful and artistic Faculty Recital is ever a much anticipated and outstanding event of the Season.

HIGH standard of tonal beauty and form, the objective of the teaching in this department, is made possible by individual lessons and by stimulating and developing inherent talent.

This ideal, coupled with the practical side obtained in the Theory department, makes for attainment of our mission: THE SPREAD OF THE GOSPEL OF GOOD MUSIC.

Social Studies Department

THIS department was formerly known as the Department of History. Under the new classification it became known as the Department of Social Studies. This classification includes those subjects which study social institutions and human reactions to them. While there is not general agreement as to all of the curricular subjects which should be included under the category, nevertheless, those generally accepted are history, sociology, economics, politics, civics, religion, and ethics. All of these studies which involve investigations and research work in human relations help to lay the foundations to explain the meaning of history.

To know and to interpret these human activities is the responsible task of the historian. He must know the past in order to understand the present. He must view the motives, objectives, aims, ideals, and the psychology of the social, political, economic, intellectual, and ethical experiences with an open and unprejudiced mind.

These facts must be faced earnestly, courageously, sympathetically, and sincerely; and the philosophy to be developed must not be fallacious but built upon premises which warrant the conclusion.

The interpretation of history by the teacher will help to determine the future status of the nation.

Supervisors of Student Teaching

IN Student Teaching, the students gain their initial experiences in the particular fields of service they are preparing to enter: Elementary, Secondary, Rural, Music, or Health and Physical Education. By actually participating in the activities of teaching they learn to assume the duties and responsibilities of their profession.

The work of student teaching takes place in the schools of West Chester, and a number of small rural and consolidated schools. Students serve as assistants or apprentices to the regular class room teachers, who are known as cooperating teachers.

The staff for directing student teaching consists of a director and several group supervisors. A supervisor is a member of the college faculty who is in direct charge of a group of student teachers. The supervisor and the cooperating teacher cooperate in the supervision of the student.

The supervisors assign students to suitable teaching situations and confer with cooperating teachers relative to the work the students are to do. They direct the students in their observation and participation, and give general instruction in the principles of teaching. They observe the student at work in the schools and give constructive criticisms and suggestions.

Demonstration School

A DEMONSTRATION School, consisting of a kindergarten and eight grades of the elementary school, is conducted and supported by the College. The teachers, who are chosen because of their qualifications for demonstration teaching in their special fields, are members of the College faculty. The College students have opportunities to observe the activities of the school under the guidance of College instructors.

The general function of the school is to contribute to the initial education of teachers for kindergarten, elementary and secondary schools by demonstrating progressive moments in the education of children. It aims to exemplify practices which the students may be expected to carry on when they become teachers in the state. It also aims to reveal higher types of activities than are observed ordinarily in the average school, and thus set up ideals which are both desirable and possible of attainment.

While the major purpose of the Demonstration School is the initial preparation of teachers, the school directs its attention in a large measure to further professional development of experienced teachers. In this respect it serves the schools of the surrounding area, whose teachers are free to observe the work of the school.

Student Health Service

HEALTH problems are constantly presenting themselves on the campus, and not infrequently they are of a serious nature. Most colleges have felt the need of some systematic method of dealing with health conditions among their students. It has been the experience of the majority of our universities and colleges that the ideal way of handling such problems is through an official health organization designed for this purpose. Such an organization is especially important in a teacher training institution. It serves as a vital link in the chain of public health teaching. As an example to her pupils, the teacher must know what health means and also the procedure by which it may be obtained.

It was with these thoughts in mind that the President and Board of Trustees sponsored the establishment in the College of a Student Health Service, the first in any of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges. The purpose of the Health Service is two-fold: first, to guard the health of the student while in College and to help the student obtain the greatest degree of physical efficiency; and second, to develop in students who are to become future teachers proper scientific health attitudes and habits, so that they may be able to take part as intelligent citizens in community health work.

Senior Class Chronicle Chant

Freshman Year

With high hopes and loads of luggage | we milled uneasily on to the college campus . one . hot day in nineteen thirty.

We tried to make less apparent | our . ignorance and the newness . by . following the antics of the upperclassmen.

In the registration line we waited | wondering . if it all were going to be . like . this:

But when we finally finished | the . yellow scroll of our life history . and . had in our hands our schedule cards

Enough relief came to give us courage | to . face the ordeal of going to our rooms . to . see our roommates.

The mixture of dread and hope | that . filled that moment before we entered our rooms . was . indescribable.

Our next most alarming ordeal was the . physical examination . accompanied . by the angel robes.

That night we were happy | to . be in our comforting beds . a . lone:

To think upon all the happenings | and . wonder what . would come . next.

Early, extremely early, | the . very next morning . a . bell awakened us.

Excitement helped | to . keep . us . wide awake.

From floors A to C | we . wandered lookingly wildly . for . unfamiliar rooms.

In class it did not seem so different | —we were . here, received quite patiently, . there, . frightened half to death:

But we were well acquainted | with . these places . from the .
past.

By the time several days had passed, after . we had our receptions . at which . we were royally received:

After our Big Sisters had come to call, or . some big Health
Ed fellow . had . yelled a friendly, "Hi, Frosh":

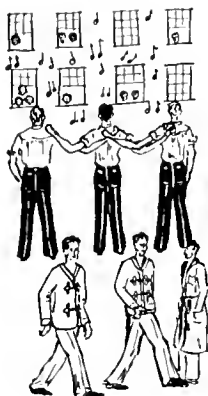

We felt | as though . things . were . going to be all right.

By the time we felt at ease † football games, plays, and dances | came a . long to make real our dreams . of a . happy college life.

We found that clever little devices | de . scribed by upperclassmen † to abate the horrors of teachers . helped . us to pass our courses.

Why we did not think of working | probably re . sulted from our glee . in . playing.

B.B.

The odd decorations | the . freshman boys wore occasionally .
af . forded the campus much amusement.

Long weeks the girls waited | for the . much talked of pajama parade . of . freshman boys.

One night much discordant music | rose . from the quadrangle
. to . please expectant ears.

The girls almost knocked down | the . browsing upperclassmen
. in their at . tempt to be first at every window.

Thanksgiving holidays | came . soon to bring us recess . and .
end our homesick tears:

But home we went | with . tales of wonder . to . our inquiring friends.—

Tales | of . how we stayed up all night . before va . cation:
How we broke this rule, | what our . “steadies” were like, .
and . how we planned to go to the Junior Prom.

When we returned to school | we re . lated glowing stories . of .
marvelous, exciting times at home.

Plans for writing term papers, † tests for other courses; | and .
anticipations of Christmas activities . kept us in a . muddle for several weeks thereafter.

When the White Supper | Carol . Service, Christmas play . and the carols . of the Senior Music students,

Became for us realities we were . more than awed.

These, | our . new traditions . brought . us the Christmas spirit:
And made bright and glowing | our . Yule . and . New Year season.

But, oh! the sad return | to . all the routine work . of our .
closing first semester.

On pins and needles | and in a . cold sweat we waited . until the . marks finally went home.

To begin our second semester, | the . Moores and Aryans presented . their annual . rush programs of stage shows and dances:

To help us realize that tests | weren't the . only things in life .
and that we could be . gin anew our collegiate struggles.

The second semester crept along | at a . rather moderate pace .
until the . Easter holidays.

Basketball, | our . pride and joy . gave . us our school spirit.

After the Easter vacation | we were made . buoyant by the loveliness . of . Spring in West Chester.

Some of us were . fortunate enough . to at . tend the Senior
Week-End:

And others of us listened | to . praises of the grandeur . from the . rest.

Before it seemed quite possible | we . often heard the whispers
. of . plans for graduation:

And realized | that our . first year of college . was be . coming past history.

Gayly | we . went along . to our . long three-months' vacation.

Sophomore Year

Another Fall we found ourselves actually . glad to get . back:
To see the people and . get into the . swing again:
In spite of pangs caused by . giving up . freedom.
In our classes even . those of whom we were not . fond Seemed somehow to belong:—
So easily . a year had ac . climated us.

It was great fun to see ourselves in the . freshmen.
The rules enforced on them and the . buffeting they re . ceived
Seemed ever so much more fun than they had the year be . fore.
We felt the traditional Sophomore power when to . us as well as the . Juniors and Seniors:

The frosh turned with . questions:
Who is that . person on the . stage:
Do you think that we'll . have a holi . day
For winning some football . game.
We participated in the activities of the . entire . school:
Contributing our part in the ath . letics:
The councils, † the "Y's" and other important ac . tivities.
Some of us honored ourselves in the . productions of the Little . Theatre:

And some of us musicians appeared in im . portant re . citals.
But no marked class connection was felt until the . Springtime:

When we ar . ranged a Sophomore . picnic.
Great fun was . had by . many:
Putting sandwiches together in the . kitchen of Recreation .
Hall.

In sev'ral . omni . buses
We went singing and . clattering
To Hilltop "Y" Camp:

Where great fun was had in playing outdoor . games.
When the line-up was made for . plates
We saw a . concrete illus . tration
Of the efficiency of the class officers:
Wiedinmyer, Hentz . Strayer and . Mitchell:
And their many brave com . mittees.
Most especially clannish we felt when we . returned after .
hours:

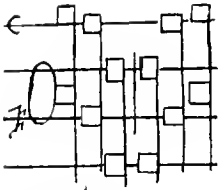

To a closed, locked dormi . tory.
We aroused the inmates from their . study:
By several cheers for Our class.
When the end of the term came:
We long'd . to stay . later:
With all our . studies . finished:
To witness . gradua . tion:
And to get a . good i . dea
Of how it . felt on . campus
With no class . work to . do.

Junior Year

By nineteen thirty-three coming back for school . was an old story . but still thrilled . us.

We were determined this year to really do things on time . and get affiliated . with all the things . which would help us . as Seniors.

Early in the Fall we had a class meeting . to design plans . for our . Junior . Promenade.

The committee planned and worked . to make our prom . a memorable . event.

One night before the event . much climbing . and manipulation . were in . augurated:

To twine ivy around the posts, † of Recreation Hall:

To lend to the Spanish Garden we had . artfully . created.

Attired in lovely evening things we were . handed down the receiving line . to quickly . start our . dancing.

Punch was very plentiful and the music fine . so home we went . contented.

Our classes this year included harder . but generally . more enjoy . able work.

We hungrily grasped at extra work . to add . to our burden.

It was great fun . to help with a party . or a play . to take important part . in any athletic e . vent.

But we were almost constantly . in a furious dilemma.

Much the same general procedure . as . in the other two . years followed.

The new social rooms helped to make the hours . after meals . seem a little . more like . home.

The card room gave us a place . to deliberate . upon our . jig saw . puzzles:

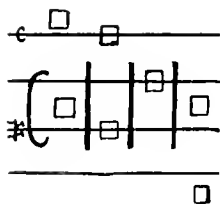

And some even brought . their knitting . to make the room . more . colorful.

Again we were anxious . to stay . for the . Senior ac . tivities:

For we wondered how we . should have to act . the next year.

Senior Year

Our thoughts and feelings|about approaching our Senior year
• were • very jumbled.

We didn't exactly feel sentimental|about • starting • our last year:

But as we went along|there were times when we realized • that this was our last • chance:

And wondered|how it would be • without it • next year.

Our attitudes toward student-teaching|were on the whole • filled with much fear and • serious thought.

We objected to the inconvenience|of the places • we had to • go.

And we didn't like too many|of our • cooperating • teachers.

We just knew|we could do better • if we could have a • longer chance.

But soon we grew accustomed|and found teaching • full of • joys.

We felt away from things|because • we did not attend • chapel.

When we did hear of campus happenings|we found that things
• were running very much as • ever.

We learned that on a stated day|we must call to have our pictures taken • for the • Serpentine.

All in our power was done|to make ourselves presentable • for that signal • sitting.

With Christmas approaching † curiosity ran riot|to know which member of our class • would sing the Christmas • solo.

A certain sadness|accompanied the carol service for us • because of its fin • ality.

And this year|Our Senior music students made the early morning carol route.

Already with the Christmas holidays|we were thinking of what people we should see • to make contacts for po • sitions.

We were serious in our hopes|and in our endeavors • to obtain them - -

Almost pathetically so|because of the slight chance • for many of our • number.

Yet besides our gravity|there was also the feeling • that we should live our last year to the • fullest.

We were beginning to be afraid|that it is true • that school

With the first semester past|we were torn between the desire • to make our last semester • easy.

And the idea that an extra course might help to better our chances for a position.
Winter, our Senior year, came in all its hoary glory and we planned a sleigh ride.
Part of us went in a truck, part of us walked home, with still undimmed daylight.
The Senior Week-End Committee soon began its work for a most delightful week-end of a very romantic sort.
We changed Recreation Hall into a formal garden as a background for our beautifully gowned friends.
We were proud to reach at last the position in which we should be allowed a Real affair.
Rushing at us in the lovely Spring came the duties of the activities connected with graduation.
We sent our invitations amid rushed preparations for a pageant for Class Day.
When classes were completed and underclassmen had gone home we felt as free and happy as larks.
We almost wished that these last few days of fun could be only an interval and not the end.
We divided our time between the necessary preparations and showing our families a round.
Friday morning we rehearsed our procession and other parts in the graduation exercises.
Saturday we stared at the alumni, admiring some and smiling softly at others.
Sunday afternoon in hot robes we listened to our baccalaureate service.
Monday we arose for our Class Day breakfast after which we planted our class tree.
In the evening our Senior dinner, followed by the pageant: Afterwards with lanterns high o'er head we made our transient moonlight fare well.
Tuesday, - - graduation day, we half laughed at our parents for seeming sad and weeping:
But after all was over, pictures having been taken, bags put into autos, and it was time to say goodbye our throats were not all perfectly relaxed.
West Chester can look extremely inviting on a bright May day!

Senior Class Advisers

Miss Elizabeth Tyson

AS a positive yet relenting and approving director, she has stood behind us. Always she has been on the scenes of action in the back stage work. We as a whole have not been conscious of her as a star, but anyone knows that class activities do not appear spontaneously from nowhere. Her interest has been constant throughout our four years. Who should know better than she how to help organize a group by parliamentary practice and keep it constitutional? But her aid in procedure has been only incidental to the real work she has done for our class. Her contributions will help to make us proud of the class to which she has been an adviser.

Dr. Robert Anderson

WE feel his presence on the campus as a part of a fine tradition—a part of the unseen influence that makes great things possible. Sometimes he seems distant and detached from the things which to us are the most exciting part of our college life, but we know that he will be kind and helpful to us—that should we need a staunch supporter for our desires he will be there. Most especially in our financial affairs and buying ventures has he helped us. He is the exemplification of what we admire in another generation.

Penultimate Year

(AN OPERA IN FIVE ACTS)

Synopsis

THE action passes in West Chester in the years 1933-1934. The overture introduces the themes in a confusion of scratching pens and rustling papers. It is registration day in the port of State Teachers College, and the officers of the good ship "Thirty Five" are signing up a hearty crew for their forth-coming voyage. Old shipmates mingle with raw recruits. The overture ends with crashing chords blending into a monotonous hum as the work begins.

In the first act, with the ship under way, the valiant crew gathers on deck to hear Captain Smith's plans for a festival. The Captain assigns the work of planning the festival to a number of the crew who enthusiastically get to work. As the act closes, the ship approaches a harbor where a number of other boats lie at anchor.

In act two we see the crew of the "Thirty Five" divided into athletic teams, testing their prowess with the crews of the other ships. The valiant commanders lead their mates into many victorious encounters. Once more the ship sets sail, this time with a distinguished group of passengers and a valuable cargo. The act closes on the eve of the festival day.

The third act is introduced by sounds of merry-making and the strains of tuneful music. The ballroom, gaily arrayed, is the scene of a colorful dance in which crew and passengers join. The music is provided by a famous orchestra taken aboard for the great event. Outstanding among the musicians are members of the "Thirty Five" crew. Finally, the zero hour is reached, and the ladies are escorted to their cabins under the watchful eye of boatswain Harry.

In act four a terrific brain storm attacks the ship, beating upon it unmercifully. The weaker members of the crew become fearful as the gales increase. Weary looks appear on all faces, and few hardy souls are seen out of their cabins. At the height of the storm several of the crew are lost overboard, but their swimming shipmates set doggedly to their task of putting the crippled ship in order. At last, they do this, and the ship once more sails bravely on. Loud hurrahs are heard as the ship sights the home harbor.

In the last act the crew, in harbor again, decide to have one more celebration in common before breaking up company. They organize a hay-ride which proceeds to a hilarious conclusion. Once more they say good-bye and take leave of one another until the next voyage shall call them together.

Sophomore Sonata

OPUS 33 AND 34

Allegro

GAYLY and cheerfully the Sophomores returned to college with light hearts filled with good intentions. In the whirlwind of greeting classmates and grasping new subjects the class was carried along at a rapid pace. Days lengthened into weeks; weeks, into months. The class concentrated on making the lives of Freshmen miserable. Sparkling eyes became clouded with the realization of the necessity of serious endeavor. The spirit of the class abated; the tempo became slower.

Adagio

The year advanced along the usual theme, and with the arrival of a new semester of study the class felt its spirits to be at ebb tide. After weary deliberation it was decided to confine the mid-year activities to a stage entertainment to be followed by a dance. Thus, on January twenty-seventh, a number of the men of the class presented for the approval of the college a surprising minstrel show.

Minuet

Following the memorable minstrel show, the class quickened the rather slow tempo of its activities to an exuberant utterance of joy at its merry dance. While a cold moon gleamed on the glittering snow outside, a gay group frolicked in the unusually bright Recreation Hall. Abounding in good spirits were the light-hearted guests, who danced to the lively music of the tuneful College Criterions at the Sophomores' mid-winter festival.

Presto

Spring had almost retreated before the glad warmth of summer and a long anticipated vacation when the class burst forth in joyous celebration on May fifth at its lively picnic. Tired faces paled by long industrious winter months brightened in the cheerful sunshine and air of festivity. As the outing, scheduled from one-thirty until ten-thirty, progressed, every one knew that the class' spirits had risen and the climax of its activities had been reached. With the gay tunes of the orchestra still ringing in the ears of its members, the class ended its frolic, satisfied that its Sophomore year was happily reaching its close.

A Passing Show of the Class of 1937

THE opening performance of the musical comedy, Class of 1937, produced by the West Chester State Teachers College Stock Company, took place on September 11, 1933. After a run of nearly nine months, it is still receiving favorable notice from the critics. The following is an extract from the review of one well-known writer:

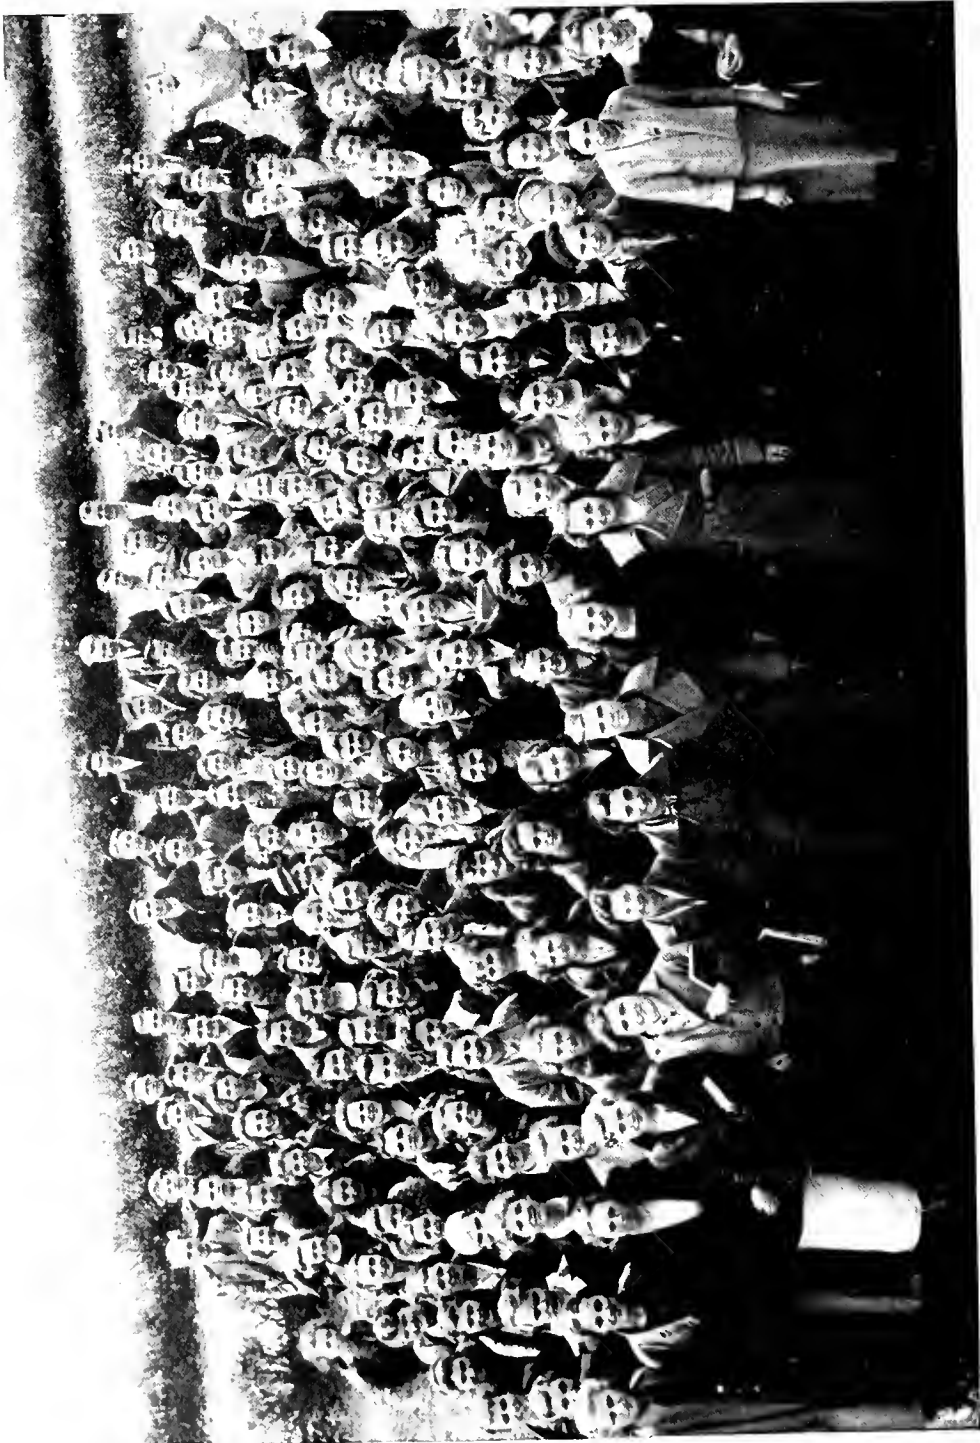

"The rising curtain displayed a college campus about which were moving choruses of young men and women. The predominating green note in the coloring of the setting and of the costumes immediately proclaimed these persons as freshmen. The color was not the only betraying feature about the outfits, however, for they consisted of green caps, conspicuous green-bordered name cards, and black neckties. Interspersed among these were the comedians of the group, attired in even more peculiar dress, articles not originally intended as wearing apparel. The entire first scene was devoted to a burlesque of a freshman's life.

"The whole production was not, however, a mere burlesque. A more serious vein ran through the entire comedy in a harmony of work and play. In the latter class should be placed the scene representing Freshman Stunt Night, at which time pseudo-political speeches echoed through the theater, and tap-dancing added a note of gaiety. These with other numbers led up to the grand finale, and as the curtain fell, the observer felt that the class would go on to success.

"Just a word about the actors in the review. The cast was a large and talented one, consisting of many promising juveniles who, with the acquisition of experience, will succeed in major productions some day. Special commendation might here be given to those who took a more prominent part in the performance, to those who as members of choruses and specialty groups cast an air of distinction upon the undertaking, and to those soloists who portrayed the part of class officers in the musical comedy."

“QUADANGLES” is the result of a rather general desire among the student body for a campus newspaper. It was established with the idea of having a publication which would carry interesting news items as well as various features and announcements. It is the opinion of the staff that with the proper cooperation from the student body the paper can be made to be of real and definite value to the school. Constructive interest seems to be growing among some of the students, and the staff is pleased to note that concrete plans for the improvement of the paper are being offered. It is the expectation, as well as the hope, that as “Quadangles” leaves its period of infancy, it will emerge a finer and a more useful part of the campus life.

THE executive division of the Men's Student Government Association has functioned in a most efficient manner this year. The success of its work is proved by the noticeable rejuvenated spirit of cooperation on the part of the men students in campus activities and in cooperative movements.

The Council was highly successful in guiding the freshmen through the ordeals of their first year at college. A friendlier relationship was established between the men's and the women's government associations. Successful student forums were held, and healthful results obtained therefrom. It is believed that the Council has materially progressed in helping to maintain a higher standard of conduct on the campus. It is hoped that the work attempted by this year's Council will be continued and improved upon by succeeding councils.

THE Women's Student Cooperative Association is organized to promote the socialization of all women students. The aim of the Association is to cooperate with the faculty and president of the college in guiding and regulating the social relationships of all women students under the jurisdiction of the college.

Through the activities conducted by the entire Association headed by the Advisory Board, or by the Dormitory and Day Student Divisions acting as separate units, a better understanding is promoted among the women of the college. Open Forum, teas, dances, luncheons, and fairs comprise the general nature of these activities.

The Association has functioned commendably in two major fields of endeavor. First, a bond of friendly relationships has been established between dormitory and day student women. Finally, there has been adequate provision for the orientation of freshmen through the Big Sister organization.

THE College Y. M. C. A. has been very fortunate in bringing to its members, this year, many outstanding activities. Its notable speakers and social problems have been unsurpassable. Among its excellent speakers, the "Y" was honored in hearing numerous faculty members, town ministers, and outside men such as Dr. Charles Harvey, Coach Lawson Robertson, Dr. A. C. Beardslee, Dr. John Humes, Dr. Ross Stover, Rev. William Fineschreiber, and many others.

The annual three-day "Freshman Camp", which was held at the college, provided new inspirations and ideals for the freshmen. This "Camp" enables the new students to adjust themselves to a new environment and to become acquainted with upper classmen and faculty members of the college.

Despite prevailing conditions, membership has dropped only a trifle. The Christmas program was the outstanding social event of the year. It was during Christmas week that the women students were given the privilege of visiting the best equipped college "Y" room in the state—a reputation of which we are very proud.

The primary purpose of the Y. W. C. A. is "to stimulate and develop the spiritual side of college life." Since spiritual effectiveness constitutes a sympathy towards and an understanding of our associates, much of the work of the Y. W. C. A. is accomplished in the field of service.

The Y. W. C. A. has brought many outstanding speakers and personalities to the campus. The members have also participated in purposeful and cooperative discussion groups, and have made college life of the average student richer by the many and varied social activities which they have sponsored.

Aryan Rush Committee

THE Aryan Literary Society offers experience in all phases of stage organization and gives its members opportunities for development in platform work. This is accomplished through two productions a year. The first, which is given in the fall of the year, is in the form of a play, produced for the pleasure and entertainment of the freshmen. The second is usually a musical revue, having an original plot and current and original music. This is produced at mid-semester and is a point of great friendly rivalry between the Aryan and Moore Societies. This production affords experience for those who dance, sing, and act, or who are especially talented in any other way. The staging, lighting effects, and directing are usually in the hands of a student committee, which is aided by the advice and supervision of a faculty member.

Students are invited to join this society during "Rush Week", which occurs at the beginning of the second semester, the season when societies compete for the larger number of members.

A special objective of the club is to collect each year some memorable autographed books. This year to date there have been received autographs from the President of the United States, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Eugene O'Neil, Edna Ferber, Countee Cullen, and Hamlin Garland. On their way, the club hopes, are autographed copies from Mussolini, Adolf Hitler, and Ramsay MacDonald. The club takes great pride in this project.

College Criterion Orchestra

THIS group of talented musicians represents the best known organization on our Campus. During the past summer they played a most successful engagement at the Hotel Henlopen, Rehoboth Beach, Delaware, and they will return there this summer.

The abilities of each man in the orchestra have combined to produce a commendable finesse in the music they play. It is the desire of the unit to attain perfection and become the criterion of things that are modern in dance music.

The men who make up the organization this year are:

The formal conducting of the club rotates among the members so that each student may learn the necessary formal expressions. The program varies each semester. Short plays, games, discussions, current events, puppet shows, and treasure hunts are all a part of the program. During the first semester of 1933-1934, discussions and current events based on clippings from a French newspaper were featured. The second semester a different type of entertainment was presented at each meeting, one act plays seeming most popular.

who enjoy the personal expression of it in group singing, but who do not specialize

Girls' Band

A FEW years ago it was very unusual to find a band composed entirely of women. Today, however, orchestras and bands composed exclusively of women can be found scattered all over the country. Our own Girls' Band has reached a point where it is a welcome participant at many events on the campus. A few years ago the men of the college considered the Girls' Band a joke, but not so now. In addition to participating in the Band Festival on the campus, this interesting organization of eighty women students gave a complete concert at Ellis College and another at the Coatesville Veterans' Hospital, all within the month of May, 1954. The instrumentation is complete, the girls proving their ability to master instruments like oboe or bassoon as well as the more common band instruments. Mr. Irvine is the conductor of this band.

THE purpose of this club is to observe political affairs throughout the world and throughout our nation in particular, and to arouse interest in history, ancient and modern. During the past year the club presented interesting and stimulating programs in which all members participated. The political struggle through which our nation is passing was carefully studied; the policies of our president were criticized and reviewed; the possibilities of war were discussed; and the dictators of Europe and their various policies drew forth much comment. For variation the programs were introduced in several ways: by debates, lectures, open club discussion, and panel discussion. One period was devoted to the club's annual trip to the historical spots of West Chester.

Junior Chorus

THE Junior Chorus, consisting of the freshman, sophomore, and junior girls of the Music Education group, has contributed generously towards a most successful year in music. By participating in the Christmas Carol Service, this organization helped to present a most delightful program. "Gallia", by Charles Gounod, was the feature number of one of the Sunday Vesper services. In the annual spring concert the group sang several lovely selections contrasting the fanciful and the real, and also joined the Vesper Choir in a splendid rendition of excerpts from Verdi's opera, "Il Trovatore." The chorus is under the competent direction of Miss Gertrude Schmidt, who has resumed her instruction at the college after a year's absence.

THE Little Theatre Players is the only organization on the campus devoted solely to the production of plays and to the development of dramatic talent. The players enjoy a prestige among other campus clubs because of the fact that membership is selective and limited strictly to fifty students.

The players give two plays a year, one fall and one spring production. This year the fall production was Milne's The Dover Road, a well performed comedy that occupied a prominent place in the annual family visiting day program. The spring production was the popular comedy, The Late Christopher Bean.

On meeting days, pantomimes, short sketches, and plays are given. A trip to the Chestnut Street Opera House to see Eva la Gallienne and her company in Alice in Wonderland was one of this year's important activities.

The granting of this award makes it possible for one student each year to continue his work in the Music Education course with a little less financial effort and a resultant improvement in scholarship.

Very attractive results have been obtained from work in mirror design, splatter work, pastel chalk, and water color.

SUCCESSFUL men live in the present—not the dead yesterday—not a vague tomorrow—but the real pulsating Today!

The Science Club participates in every field of scientific activity—chemistry, physics, astronomy, nature study, etc. The science members live in the pursuits of the world of Now. The science club seeks to foster among the student body of our college, initiative, straightforwardness and a perspicacity for news.

When the time for Graduation rolls 'round, it is appropriate to make a resume of what has been accomplished in the recently completed term. In this respect, the Science Club is singularly fortunate, for seldom has any club enjoyed the varied program that our members have. Each successive meeting brought forth new attractions, both in the line of education and entertainment, and in the form of interesting talks and discussions on various phases of scientific work.

College Symphony Orchestra

THE Symphony Orchestra is an organization open to all students of the college who can qualify for it. Its members participate in orchestral music of the highest type. The rehearsals are mainly, though not entirely, devoted to preparing a concert each spring, which usually includes a concerto by one of the advanced students on some solo instrument, with orchestra. The orchestra has a personnel of seventy-eight players and practically standard symphonic instrumentation.

A smaller organization known as the "Little Symphony" is chosen from the larger orchestra to provide incidental music for plays, pageants, and other activities of the campus which demand music of artistic merit. Both organizations are directed this year by Mr. Zimmer.

THE Travelers' Club began its activities on the campus in October, 1926. The purpose of this organization is to increase interest and knowledge in the field of geography. Membership affords opportunity not only for participation in the programs of the club, but also for experience in the organization and administration of similar extra-curricular activities.

This year, trips to various points of interest in the United States, as well as a world tour, charmed the attention of the group. These travels were made more interesting and instructive by means of illustrated lectures by both students and guest travelers, by dramatizations, and by other activities. Aside from the regular programs, picnics and various types of social meetings were arranged for the students' enjoyment.

The purpose of this club is to promote good fellowship among the athletes of this college, to stimulate interest in athletics of the college, and to present awards to those members of the club who have met all the requirements governing the awarding of these honors.

The club sponsors many activities on the campus to secure money to buy awards. This year the club sold football programs, presented a movie, and gave a dance which proved to be an outstanding social event of the year.

THE Vesper Choir, an outstanding musical organization on the campus, set a new standard this year by the character of work done in all its public appearances. The singing by the Choir at the Annual Christmas Carol Service was said to be the finest of its kind in the history of the College.

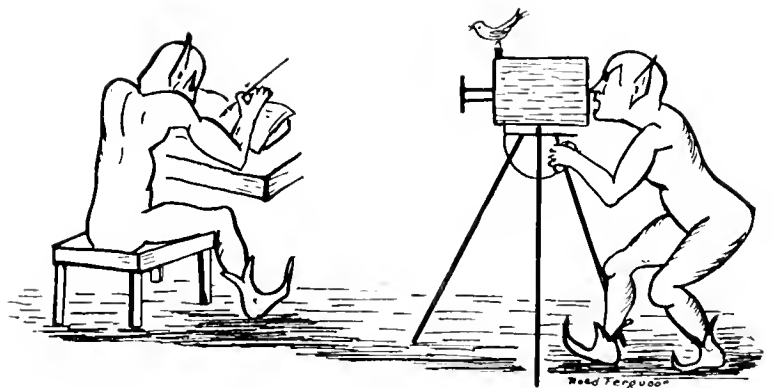

At the Lenten Vespers in March, the Passion portion of "The Messiah" was presented in masterly style, with the assistance of several Alumni as soloists.

The year's work was climaxed in the Spring Concert at which time were presented a capella works, in addition to the Choral Fantasia of Verdi's opera, "Il Trovatore."

We owe all gratitude and appreciation to the Choir's excellent director, Mr. C. Edward Hausknecht, who is mainly responsible for the accomplishments of this renowned musical organization.

CALLING the squad of football huskies back a week early, Coach Wescott and his two worthy assistants, Jack Moore and Kenneth Townsend, went right to work grooming them for their opening game with Villanova College. As there was plenty of opposition for each varsity position, it took considerable time to make a choice as to who should fill it.

Villanova has the reputation of having one of the best elevens in the East; however, West Chester played a hard, bang-up game. Every player tackled with precision and ran hard when he had the ball. Villanova won 45 to 0. They were led in battle by "Whitey" Randour, mentioned for an All-American position.

The following Saturday on Wayne Field, West Chester lost its second game of the season to St. Joseph's, 6 to 7. Both teams scored in the second half of the game. St. Joseph's netted its extra point after the touchdown, winning the game by one point.

The air route was directly responsible for both of Drexel's touchdowns in the third game of the season. They scored the touchdowns in the first half by passes and then played defensive football. Taronis starred in a most spectacular 68-yard run-back from a Drexel punt. He was assisted in doing so by ten excellent West Chester blockers.

P. M. C.'s super-husky squad swamped Captain Harry Sweikert's Purple and Gold team-mates on the Cadets' field by a 38 to 0 score. Once West Chester held the Cadets on the one-yard line for four downs. An aerial attack threatened by West Chester in the second half was held in abeyance by P. M. C.'s towering backs.

In the State Teachers Class, West Chester showed a superior brand of football by subduing Shippensburg 38 to 0. In this game Robinson scored two touchdowns for West Chester, and Steckbeck, Satterfield, and Friend each accounted for one. Taronis added the extra points after touchdown.

Marty Brill's explorers were given an even battle by West Chester, but were fortunate enough to have their halfback, Bahr, catch a long pass over the goal line for their six points. Both teams caught three passes, and Oberle excelled the LaSalle punter in kicking the ball.

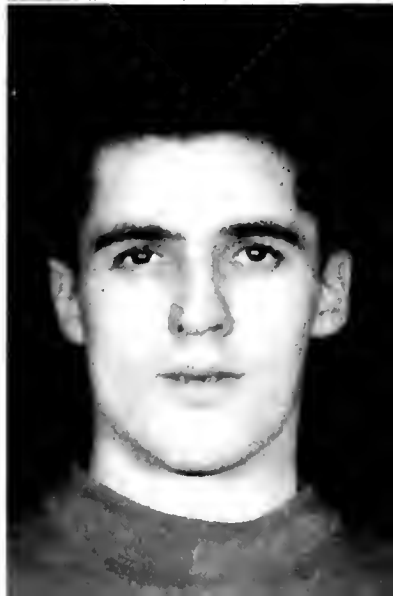

The sporting world was shocked by the 6 to 0 victory West Chester handed the strong Albright eleven. Acting-Captain Bennett ran a guard-around play for the winning six points. Every West Chester player showed brilliant defensive and offensive work in this the most spectacular game of the season.

Once more slated by sports writers to lose, the Purple and Gold Warriors plunged, passed, and skirted ends for a 19 to 0 victory over the strong Millersville Eleven. Robinson, Slattery, and Taronis accounted for the touchdowns in this, the last game for West Chester's Purple and Gold football team.

With the loss of players by graduation being small, West Chester should have a world beating team in its 1954 season.

Junior Varsity Football Team

A LARGE number of hard playing, husky fellows, under the tutelage of Coaches Strayer and Hickman, made a fine showing against their powerful opposition in the first Junior Varsity football schedule West Chester has ever had. The boys practiced faithfully and showed that they were playing football for the love of the game. The varsity football teams of the future will be made up of these boys.

Soccer

THE old tradition that a game rests with the referees is quite true in West Chester's Soccer history. The Referees' team was the only team to defeat the Purple and Gold team during the booting year. Large colleges and universities held no fear for West Chester this season. They invited the competition which the West Chester players always look forward to.

Coach Earl Water's Purple and Gold booters opened up the season by defeating the strong Alumni booters by a 3 to 1 score on Wayne Field. A newcomer, Dan Ruppert, scored all three goals for the college booters. Every man on the squad saw action in this game and made the outlook for the rest of the season promising. Last year's goalie, "Joker" Kerr, played a great game for the Alumni, and ex-Captain Camp was a strong contender for honors. This was the twenty-third straight victory for West Chester College.

The passing attack and cleverness of the old timers making up the Referees' team gave the varsity too much trouble. They were the cleverest opponents on Wayne Field in three years. They handed Coach Water's boys a 3 to 5 loss.

In the next game, West Chester smothered Delaware University under, 8 to 1. This game showed no laxity in any period of the contest. Dan Ruppert, Glen Weakley, Raymond DeHoff, Al Moore, and Al Gwynn were the stellar performers in this battle.

Ardmore Cricket Club was added to West Chester's list of victims by the one sided score of 9 to 0. "Al" Moore tallied the first score and was followed in scoring by "Eddy" Good, Donald Hilbert, Lawson Earl, and Co-captain

Soccer—Penn Mutual vs. West Chester

DeHoff. West Chester's backs kept the ball away from the opponents every minute of the game.

West Chester showed excellent teamwork in the game with Penn Mutual. Co-captains Weakley and DeHoff led their team members into a first quarter scoring spree, and the Purple and Gold squad had little trouble annexing 14 goals to Penn Mutual's 2.

A reputable Franklin and Marshall team came to West Chester expecting to beat Coach Water's team with little trouble. They found in West Chester a more powerful and skillful team and lost 3 to 0. "Al" Moore, "Al" Gwynn, and Dan Ruppert contributed the goals in this game. The backs played exceptionally well and kept the ball away from the opponents with skill and accuracy.

Merion Cricket Club, made up of college stars, was no match for West Chester. With the strong support of all the teacher booters, Ruppert and Gwynn, made the goals. Conard showed brilliant work both offensively and defensively in this contest.

The Temple "Owls" gave West Chester a tough battle in Philadelphia. Both teams scored early in the game. Moore took a pass from Gwynn for West Chester's first goal and a pass from Co-captain Weakley for the next. Ruppert scored on a penalty kick, and Gwynn contributed the final tally.

Continuing their winning streak the college booters won a 5 to 0 victory over the Penn A. C. in a great exhibition of the boot and butt sport. Scoring honors were divided among Earl, Moore, and Ruppert. This game closed a record season for the Purple and Gold Booters.

Varsity Basketball Team

COACH Howard Wescott's dribblers had a very successful record for the 1954 basketball season. With an experienced squad to work with, the coach had very little trouble getting them in shape for the opening game.

West Chester traveled to Villanova for its first game of the season. Villanova had much difficulty to come out on the long end of a 52-26 margin.

After losing to Villanova by a small margin, West Chester swamped Delaware University by a 58-19 score. The Purple and Gold team showed fine form in this game, giving promise to the rest of the season.

In the first home game, West Chester met a strong St. Joseph's Five. The game was fast and close, with West Chester winning—33 to 27.

The next game, with Kutztown, was a one-sided game with Captain Earl and his teammates controlling the ball most of the time. Kutztown scored 28 points, West Chester—48.

Serpentine

At Millersville the West Chesterites gave the Millersville Five a complete trimming; getting away to an early lead, West Chester won—40 to 28.

One of the closest matched games of the season was the home game with P. M. C. "Tabby" Howells starred in this game, scoring 8 points. The final score was West Chester 26, P. M. C. 21.

Drexel's Five gave the Purple and Gold courtmen a hard fight. Emil Messikomer and "Tabby" Howells led the scoring attack for West Chester. West Chester was triumphant, scoring 34 points to Drexel's 20.

LaSalle gave Captain Earl and his teammates a complete loss on the LaSalle court. LaSalle converted 17 out of 20 fouls and won from West Chester 37 to 23.

Traveling to Lehigh University, the West Chester team avenged its last year's defeat at the hands of Lehigh by turning the tables on them, winning easily with a 35 to 15 score.

The next game, with St. Joseph's, was a fast and well played game. The Philadelphians won by the close score of 26 to 25.

Machinsky led the attack in the Millersville game, helping his teammates win a 38 to 28 battle. This was Millersville's second defeat of the season by West Chester.

Playing host to LaSalle, the Purple and Gold Five lost by a heart breaking score of 25 to 24. At P. M. C. the next week, West Chester came through with a 24 to 22 victory. The next game was with the University of Delaware in the Ehinger Gymnasium. Coach Wescott's dribblers pulled in a 27 to 22 victory. Traveling to Kutztown for the last game of the season, West Chester was taken by surprise and defeated, 35 to 41.

During the season, Emil Messikomer led the individual scoring with 85 points. Charles Howard was second with 71 points. Captain Earl took third honors with 69 points.

Baseball Team

WHEN Coach Conover called out the men for practice, many of last year's varsity appeared. Among them are Captain DeHoff, Emil Messikomer, Preston Beaver, "Al" Gwynn, and Millard Robinson. These and many others are plugging away towards a successful season. As the team faces hard games there will be strenuous practice, and many of last year's men will have to do good work to keep their positions.

Track and Field Team

UNDER the tutelage of Coach Earl Waters, the track squad has been practicing daily for its spring meets. Faced with the graduation of many of his stars of last year, the coach is spending much of his time on promising men from the freshman class.

The team this year will be captained by James McLaughlin, who is a three-year letterman. He is usually good for two or three first places in each meet. Alfred Knabb and Harry Brown will be in condition to take care of the distant running. We are faced with the problem of a high jumper to take the place of Ross Manifold, who had to leave school for a semester because of a broken leg. Tabby Howells will be the best bet for the pole vaulting man. Wally Dreeby and John Oberle will throw the weights; James McLaughlin will be the speed king for the short runs, including the dashes, the hurdles, and the broad jump; "Bud" Fenton, holder of the state half-mile record, will be in the line-up to defend that position. With two members of last year's mile relay team graduated, Coach Waters is faced with finding two good men to represent the Purple and Gold squad.

Among the seniors who will compete for the last time for West Chester are "Bud" Fenton, Harry Brown, and Wally Dreby. Glen Weakley, a sprint man of high class speed, was hurt in soccer this season, but if he is better by the track season, he will do his share for the Purple and Gold.

Cross Country Team

CROSS Country records are sure to be broken when Captain Alfred Knabb leads his teammates—Harry Brown, Francis Fenton, Leroy McElroy, Zenas Savage, and James German into a race. Coach C. Van Dyke Conover's Purple and Gold cross-country team, undefeated in two years of inter-collegiate competition, kept its record unblemished during the season of 1933-34.

The first meet of the season was held over the difficult course at Shippensburg. The squad made a splendid showing in this race, placing Captain Alfred Knabb, first; Harry Brown, third; Francis Fenton, fourth; and the rest not far behind them. The score was West Chester 25, Shippensburg 30.

Traveling to St. John's at Annapolis, the team won its second race of the season with Knabb breaking the school cross-country record and placing first for his teammates. This score was West Chester 25, St. John's 30.

Bloomsburg's harriers were unbeaten for four years, and then West Chester traveled up state and gave them their first defeat. Captain Knabb opened up again in this race and clipped a minute and thirty-five seconds off the course record. The score in this race was West Chester 25, Bloomsburg 30.

Just to prove to their opponents that they were good and not just lucky, they took the three squads from Shippensburg, Bloomsburg, and St. John's, and outran them in an invitation meet over the five-mile West Chester course. "Al" Knabb covered the distance in 27 minutes, 13 seconds for a first place and a gold medal. Harry Brown finished third, winning a bronze medal. Francis Fenton placed sixth, and Jim German, ninth. A silver trophy went to West Chester College for its lowest score. The points were West Chester 34; Bloomsburg 51; Shippensburg 54; and St. John's 75.

These four victories meant hard work for every one of the Purple and Gold runners, and they deserve unlimited credit for winning so nobly for West Chester.

Three of the squad entered in outside meets and won honors for themselves. Alfred Knabb won first place in the Middle Atlantic Junior Championship Meet. At the Camden Street Meet, Knabb and Fenton both showed up well, with Knabb taking a third place. At a handicap at Lansdale, Knabb won third time prize, and in the Middle Atlantic Senior Meet, he won third place at the finish.

Swimming Team

WEST Chester's team, captained by Rugerio Flocco, a National low-board diving champion, had a hard schedule to compete with. The team was coached by Mr. A. W. Thompson and managed by Charles Free-land. Inexperienced in swimming meets, the West Chester team did well in gaining as many first places as it did during the season.

THE Women's Athletic Association offers two outstanding awards to those who have fulfilled certain requirements. A point system has been established which enables a girl to receive a W. A. A. pin after she has earned 800 points and a blazer after she has earned 1000 points. There are numerous ways a girl may receive these points; namely, participation in a sport, team participation, captain of a team, manager of a team, student assistants in charge of sports, manager of a sport, or an officer of the organization. The following will receive awards at our annual 1954 banquet:

THE purpose of this club is to give every girl an opportunity to participate in various sports of her liking. The program of extra-curricular activities is planned for the women of the college. It is necessary for each member to take active part in one sport each semester to maintain membership.

Interclass competition has been aroused through the medium of a game-fest which covered a period of six weeks. This game-fest was composed of the following moderate sports: bowling, paddle tennis, shuffleboard, badminton, darts, and ping-pong.

A dance recital, sponsored by the W. A. A. and the Valkyrie Club, was produced this year for the students. This included folk, clog, and natural dancing.

Through cooperative team play and true sportsmanship, we are striving to interest all the girls in the value of athletic participation.

Senior Health Ed. Basketball Team

ENTHUSIASM for Women's Basketball reached a higher pitch this year than in previous years. This was apparent from both the players' and spectators, standpoint.

The fast-moving seniors again clinched the championship. This team has never been defeated by another Health Education team in its four years at college. This is a record that will be difficult to surpass.

Several challenge games were played after the tournament had closed, which aroused added interest and enthusiasm.

KEENER competition prevailed this year when the Health Education and Academic girls were divided into two separate leagues. A healthy spirit, that seemed to be lacking other years, was present; a heartfelt interest, noticeable in every team member, was also portrayed in the games.

The group pictured above was victorious, winning every game. Surely the enjoyment and benefit derived from this competition should act as an incentive for future participation by all academic girls in our Sports Program.

Women's Hockey Teams

THE increasing popularity of Hockey for Women has brought about keen competition in the annual Hockey Tournaments. This year's tournament was exceedingly close since the championship team was not determined until the final game had been played.

The laurels for the 1933 season were won by a plucky Freshman team. On every occasion, this team exhibited the adequate skill and team-play necessary to conquer its opponents.

This selected group has made a rapid adaptation to our sport's world and can well boast a splendid start in Hockey.
